Q: Using Bash, is there a way to combine 2 awk commands? I need to create a bat file that will get the contents of a text file and use awk to show output based on contents of the file and a corresponding variable. Currently I have code like this: `#!/bin/bash file=$1 VAR=$2 echo $VAR > $file awk 'BEGIN{FS=OFS=","} FNR==NR{a[FNR]=$0;next} $2 in a' filename.txt $VAR` However, I need to have it set such that if I have 3 numbers in the text file like 20, 30, 50, I only want it to output 20, 30 and 50 but I need it in the same order. Is there any way of doing this? A: this seems to work: `awk -v VAR=$VAR 'BEGIN{FS=OFS=","} NR==FNR && $2 in a{ sub(/^$2/, "", $2); a[NR]=$0 next } {print $0, a[NR]}' filename.txt` you would invoke the script by using the variables in the shell script: `./script.sh file1.txt 50,30,20` by using the `--file` option of awk: `awk -v VAR=$VAR -v input=$1 -v line=$2 'BEGIN{FS=OFS=","} NR==FNR && $2 in a{ sub(/^$2/, "", $2); a[NR]=$0 next } {print $0, a[NR]}' --file=$input --line`
