Game Name: RPG Maker MZ - Demon Realm Battlepack Gamer: Everyone Genre: Role Playing Games About The Game RPG Maker MV - Demon Realm Battlepack: Game Name: RPG Maker MV - Demon Realm Battlepack Gamer: Everyone Genre: Role Playing Games If someone knows anything about this issue and help me to solve this, please let me know. A: The following code was caused because my "MakeText()" function was not taking into account my Text Size Variable. Fixed! Since I use Text Size Variable, I use it to pass the string instead of calculate it, if there is more text. The Text Size Variable calculate the text size, not the characters; so if you use a text size of 14, the "B" character will be 14x14 pixels wide, but the "b" character will be 14x15 pixels. Code: #define xpos 0 #define ypos 1 #define text_size = 14.0f #define text_width = sqrt((12.0f / text_size) + ((text_size / 100.0f) * 25.0f) + ((text_size / 100.0f) * (text_size / 100.0f))) void Map::MakeText(int xpos, int ypos, int text_size, int text_width, string text) { std::array c = {0, 0, text_size, text_size, (text_width / 2.0f)}; switch (text.length()) { case 1: c[0] = c[1] = c[2] = 0; c[3] = (text_size / 100.0f) * (text_size / 100.0f); c[4] = (text_size / 100.0f); break; case 2: c[0] = c[1] = c[2] = 0; c[3] = (text_size / 100.0f) * (d41b202975
