Sanchez, of the Spanish socialist PSOE party, won 60 percent of the vote compared to PP's 38 percent while the Catalan pro-independence populist party Ciudadanos polled 3.5 percent and Podemos 3.3 percent. "We have won, I have won, the Spanish people have won," Sanchez told supporters in the capital Madrid. "The worst of times are past and we are going to make a people's government." His victory was widely expected after Sanchez won the most votes in the first round two weeks ago. But his party is still e79caf774b
